

ABSTRACT

Rini Adilla Ulfa. Experiential Function in Analisa Newspaper
Thesis: English Applied Linguistic Graduate Program. UNIMED 2006

This thesis deals with Experiential Function in Analisa Newspaper. The objectives are to describe the type of process used in Analisa Newspaper, to describe the kinds of circumstances used in Analisa Newspaper, to analyze the type of process which is the most dominant in Analisa Newspaper, to analyze the type of circumstance which is the most dominant in Analisa Newspaper, to describe the reasons of the dominant types occurred in Analisa newspaper.

The research findings indicate that there are six Processes found in Analisa Newspaper. There are Material Process (56.5 %), Mental Process (3.8 %), Relational Process (2.8 %), Verbal Process (35.2 %), and Existential Process (1.8 %). There are 8 (eight) Circumstances found in Analisa Newspaper. There are Circumstance Extent, Circumstance Location Spatial (43.5 %), Manner Circumstance (6.4 %), Cause Circumstance (1.6 %), Contingency Circumstance 4.8 %, Angel Circumstance (3.2 %) and Accompaniment Circumstance (8.1 %). The dominant type of process is Material Process. The dominant type of Circumstance is Circumstance Location Spatial. The Material Process and Circumstance Location Spatial become the dominant because the contents of news in Analisa newspaper related to Social context.

