CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusion

Language conveys interpersonal function where it is used to enable us to participate in communicative acts with other people, to take on roles and to express and understand feelings, attitudes, and judgements. This interpersonal function pours out through communication or in the program of Stand Up Comedy Show. After presenting the research findings inprevious chapter, conclusions were drawn as follows.

(1) The system network of speech function which was dominantly used in Raditya Dika's utterances was in the form of " statement " which was 63.12 % which was information was the most list statement in raditya dika utterances which was (58,7 %) and then followed by furry (10,58%), disappointment was 7,16%, reason (6,82 %), blame (3,75 %), clarification (3,34 %), Support (2,04 %),probability (1,02 %) and hope (0,68 %). And then followed by call (1,02 %) and greeting (6,20 %). The next system network of speech functions dominantly used was question. There were (28,73 %)127 clauses used by speaker. The dominant speech function of question in the discourses was Wh-question which was 22.62 % and then followed by yes/no question which had 6.10 %. And the last There (5.65 %) 25 clauses used by the speaker. the dominant speech function of command was positive command which was 5.42 % and then followed by negative command which had 0.22 %. Based on that finding, this research has found that Raditya Dika want to give detail information to the audiences. Besides that it happened because the role of Raditya Dika was as the speaker of the program. As a speaker Raditya Dika used statement to express his ideas in a direct way to give information or deliver messages to the audiences.

(2) There are three realizations of speech functions in moods, they are declarative, interrogative and imperative.The system network of speech function realized by mood was dominantly expressed in " declarative "which was 64.97 %. And then followed by interrogative mood 29.46 %.

And the last realization of speech functions was imperative. There were 5.80 % of imperative mood.

(3) The speech functions in initiating are realized as follows : statement realized by declarative mood, question realized by interrogative mood and command realized by imperative mood. The researcher conclude that speech function refers to the verb in the sentence. It catagorizes in the semantic term. Semantic term has realized in the lexicogrammar. Every sentence has realized in the speech functionand also speech function in emantics has realized in mood system in lexicogrammar. The conclusion is a raditya dika utterances as the object of the study which realizes in the speech function and mood. It coul be dominant using of speech function. So that is the reason why speech function is dominant using in Raditya Dika's utterances.

5.2 Suggestions

After concluding the findings, suggestions were staged as the following.

(1) It is suggested to other researchers to carry out other study in other specialized interpersonal functions such as Kick Andy, Sarah Sechan, or Jokowi's speech in order to rich investigation which related with interpersonal function. And also it can give surprising progress in the linguistic field.

(2) It is suggested to the next researcher to do a deeper research about interpersonal function in different discourses in order to know the different significant from the discourses and it can be more intensively described.

(3) This study will be relevant used by the learners to improve their ability to understand and produce discourses which are effective in conveying informations in order to make the learners become mastery in analyzing interpersonal function in any discourses.