

CHAPTER V CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

From the data analysis, the objective of this research is to find out the process types, the most dominant type and the implication of the dominant one. This research is conducted by qualitative and quantitative design which make a description and the percentage of the result. It is found:

- a. The six types of processes (Material, Mental, Relational, Behavioral, Verbal and Existential) were used in Caleb and Catherine spoken language in Fire Proof movie.
- b. The most dominant process produced by Caleb was material process 175(35.42%) from 494 clauses meanwhile the most dominant process produced by Catherine was mental process 77(27.11% ) from 286 clauses.
- c. Material process became the dominant one in Caleb spoken language because Caleb's more focusing on action than feeling. He straight to the point in delivering something and thought logically. Only in scene of forgiveness and showing love, mental process became the dominant one. In Catherine spoken language, mental process became the dominant one because she focused on what she felt and how the condition of her mother. Totally it was about feeling. Catherine also thought emotionally. Only in scene of quarrel part, material process became the dominant one.

a. Suggestions

- a. It is suggested for students of English Department should have many references to improve their understanding in transitivity system
- b. It is hoped to everyone who want to do research on linguistics related to Systemic Functional Linguistics (SFL) especially on transitivity system, should have more interesting data such as analyzing process in Bipolar Language, Down Syndrome Language etc.
- c. For further researchers who want to have clearer vision about process in sexist language, can have this thesis as one of the references.
