

LIST OF FIGURES

	Page
Figure 2.1 Representation levels in teaching chemistry (Johnstone, 1991)	11
Figure 2.2 Revised Bloom's taxonomy of educational objectives	16
Figure 2.3 Dick and Carey instructional design model (1990)	19
Figure 2.4 Kemp instructional design model (1990)	20
Figure 2.5 Borg and Gall instructional design model	21
Figure 2.6 ASSURE instructional design model	22
Figure 2.7 Cognitive theory about multimedia learning	23
Figure 2.8 Multimedia instructional design process	25
Figure 3.1 Design of developed multimedia (modified from Dick and Carey's Model (1990))	32
Figure 4.1 Eligibility level of design of IM	55
Figure 4.2 Eligibility level of content of IM	55
Figure 4.3 Eligibility level of IM vs PM	56
Figure 4.4 Students' achievement of IM-GI vs DI	59
Figure 4.5 Opening page of Interactive Multimedia	61
Figure 4.6 Feed of Interactive Multimedia	62
Figure 4.7 Interface of using audio narration, animation, and simulation	62
Figure 4.8 Interface of example of exercise-I	63
Figure 4.9 Interface of relevant feedback of exercise-II	64