

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusions

This thesis explores the experiential and interpersonal meanings of SFL through the process systems in terms of the main issues Joko Widodo conveyed in his speech about Indonesia. The analysis of the data is limited to revealing the process and participant roles as parts of Experiential functions. It attempts to understand the construction and representation of Indonesia issues in his speech. This study is based on the work of Halliday; the pioneer of SFL and Matthessein (2014), and the works of followers Eggins, Thompson, and Fontain.

This thesis on Experiential Function has been analyzed and based on the analysis, the researcher presents some valuable conclusions.

1. There are 6 types of Processes used in the Joko Widodo's speech at APEC CEO Summit 2014 in Beijing, China. They are Material, Mental, Relational, Existential, and Behavioral Processes. The dominant process used is Material.
2. There are 7 types of Circumstances used in the Joko Widodo's speech at APEC CEO Summit 2014 in Beijing, China. They are Extent, Location, Manner, Cause, Contingency, Accompaniment, and Role. It appears that the dominant type used is Location.
3. Material process is known as a process of doing. In this speech, Joko Widodo would like to give good perception to the participants of APEC CEO Summit 2014 in Beijing, China that Indonesia is a potential place to invest and develop their business.

5.2 Suggestions

The current study has rendered an investigation on the construction of the issues of Indonesian development programmes in Joko Widodo's speeches. It has been achieved through the analysis of Transitivity processes and participants roles to realize experiential and interpersonal meanings. Therefore; this study can open a window for further studies. A research can be conducted on other discourses of Joko Widodo on the same issues to find whether the study gives similar or different outcomes. An examination into the Interpersonal metafunction through the analysis of experiential functions can be a complement for the current study to explore what role the president selects in the speech situations and what roles he gives to the addressee. The current data can also be employed to analyze the Textual meaning which may depict another value of meaning that is how the messages of speeches organized can be uncovered.

With reference to the conclusions, suggestions are:

1. It is suggested that the English teachers should carefully examine the use of Process by which they can understand the texts better.
2. It is suggested that the president candidate should carefully examine the use Circumstance by which they can understand the texts better.
3. It is suggested that both the English teachers and president candidate should notice the strength of language used by Joko Widodo in his speech to influence foreign people to invest in Indonesia.