

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion of the research findings that has been written in the previous chapter. In addition, the research also provides suggestion for teacher.

A. Conclusion

After Analyzing the data, the conclusion drawn related to the used project based learning model in teaching writing analytical exposition text at eleventh grade in SMA YPI Amir Hamzah Medan as follows: In Project based learning model in teaching writing analytical exposition text at eleventh grade in SMA YPI Amir Hamzah Medan, the teacher used three stages and six learning activities. Where three stages and six learning activities namely: Planning (choosing project topic, pre communicative activities, designing project plan), Implementation (finishing the project), Reporting (assessing the project results, evaluating the project).

B. Suggestion

In relation to the conclusion, the following are presented as the suggestion which are useful for the Teachers and the future researchers. This findings were expected to be a useful contribution to improve the English teacher's quality in teaching writing skill. In order to achieve learning objectives through the model chosen by the teacher, because the model can help students in writing skill. And This thesis was giving some contributions and information for future researchers about Project based learning model in teaching writing used by the teacher and the researcher's wish that another researcher could conduct this research in a wider area.