CHAPTER V

SUGGESTION AND CONCLUSION

A. Conclusion

This research has applied the transitivity processes in identifying president Joseph Robinette Biden Jr's State of the Union address transcript. All processes were found to have happened. From these processes, the current situation in the United States is clearly expressed. Material processes as the highest findings, portrays Joe Biden actions being president. The actions are American rescue plan and unity agenda. From the standpoint of a political speech, the State of the Union address makes he sounds wise and powerful. Joe Biden cares about his nation as president should be. Justification that he cares is offering many better plans, American rescue plan, and agenda that is beneficial to American people and the country. Those are direct thoughts from Joe Biden's presidency.

Anyways he will always have their back as their president no matter whatsoever United States of America goes through. He said that himself. Moreover, United States is superpower country that also cares about the world, Joe Biden once said that the American people are strong. American citizen can pull it off. This State of the Union are strong because of Americans. Joe Biden, a member of democratic party and back then represented Delaware in the United States from 1973. He knows this nation, United States of America.

B. Suggestion

The analysis here is based on theory proposed by Halliday and Matthiessen, is about ideational meta-functions with a focus on the transitivity process. To do the transitivity analysis through meta-functions, other researchers who wish to undertake systemic functional grammar can do so by leveraging the expertise of these linguists in systemic functional grammar. At the end, through the transitivity process of president Joe Biden's State of the Union address transcript from the approach of systemic functional grammar, everyone can gain an in-depth knowledge of his political standpoint while also improving their ability to identify political discourse.