CHAPTER V
CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

After analyzing the structure exchange in Jonathan Franzen's novel Freedom, it can be concluded that:
1) It is found some hindrances in conversations which used among the character in Jonathan Franzen's novel Freedom, it showed that conversations did not progress smoothly because it was found one side conversation.

2) The structure of interaction in Jonathan Franzen's novel Freedom was dynamic since it is found cf, rcf, cl, rcl, rcheck, bch, and rp and the structure exchange found are k2 ∧ k1, k2 ∧ k1 ∧k2f, k2 ∧ k1 ∧ k2f ∧ k1f, da1 ∧ a2 ∧ a1, a2 ∧ a1 ∧ a2f, and a2 ∧ a1 ∧ a2f ∧ a1f.

B. Suggestions

Based on the conclusion given, the following suggestions are needed to be considered in conducting the related research:

1) The writer suggests for the students or those want to observe the natural flow of an interaction, this theory of structure of interaction can be implemented.

2) The writer suggests for researchers want to research about Structure Exchange, Speech Function, and Mood use discourse analysis in observing to solve every language phenomenon in interaction.

3) The writer suggests for the reader of any discourse whether novel, newspaper, or magazines to realize and understand the natural flow of interaction by exposing the structure exchange which are made up by moves so the readers can use appropriate moves in the appropriate situation.
