

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

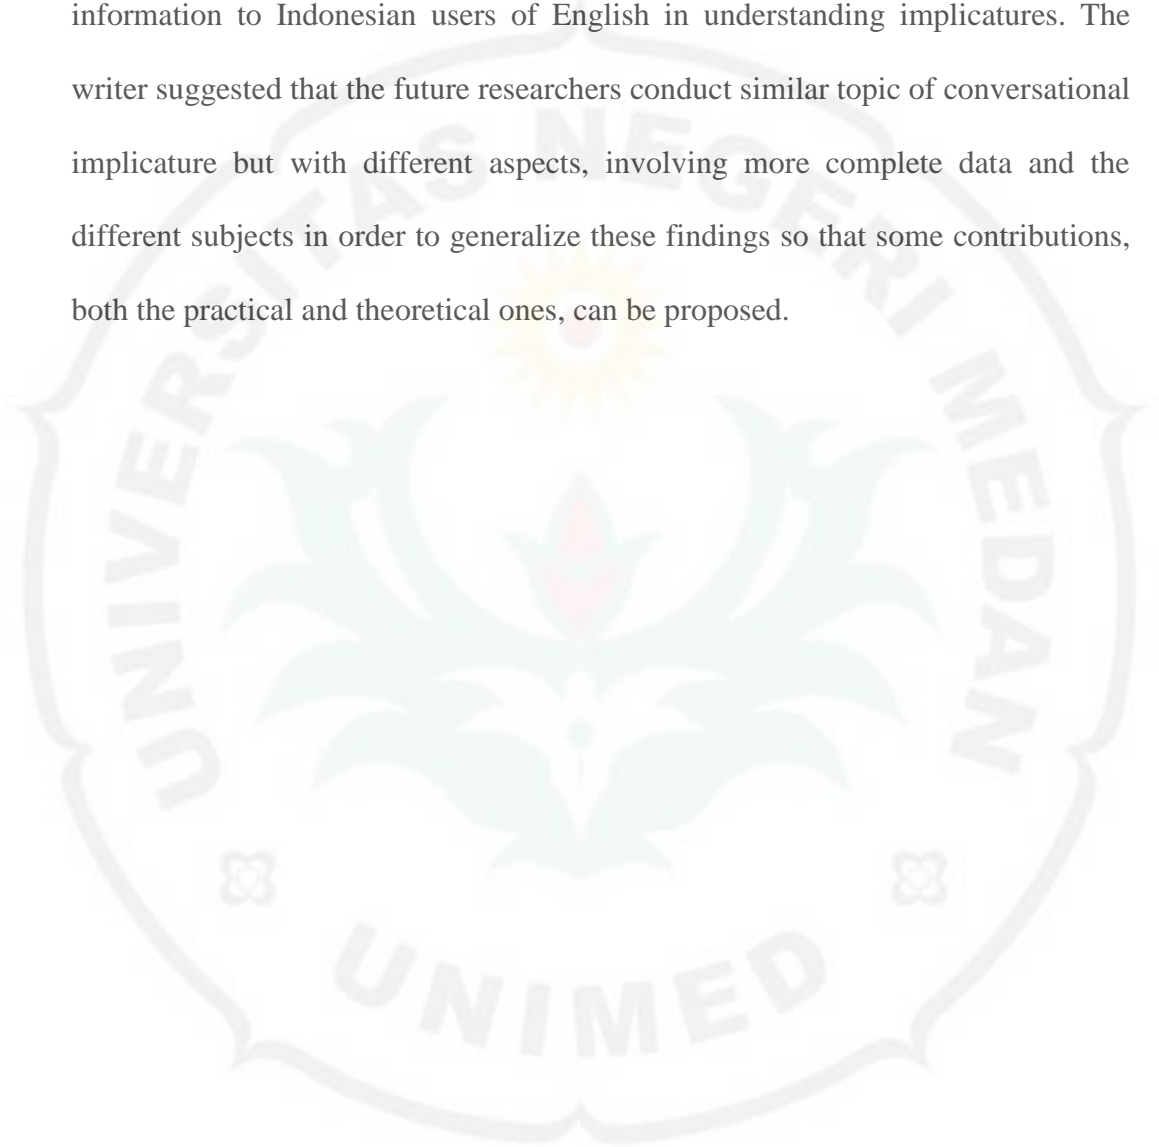

From the findings, the writer found the total 36 occurrences of conversational implicatures. Belows are the complete conclusion:

1. The two types of conversational implicature were occurred in the Inception movie dialogue. They were Generalized Conversational Implicature (21) and Particularized Conversational Implicature (15). The most dominant type of conversational implicature was Generalized Conversational Implicature.
2. Finally, those findings prove that implicature was used as an effective tool of communication. In majority, verbal communications with conversation implicatures were successful when the meaning conveyed by the speaker was recovered as a result of the hearer's inference. The communication was successful even though conversational implicatures were produced. This meant that the hearers always manage interaction so that meanings were successful exchanged with others.

B. Suggestions

The writer hoped that the learners can get the higher awareness and understanding of predicting the conveyed meaning when communicating so that meanings are successfully exchanged with others.

The writer also hoped that this study will contribute some useful information to Indonesian users of English in understanding implicatures. The writer suggested that the future researchers conduct similar topic of conversational implicature but with different aspects, involving more complete data and the different subjects in order to generalize these findings so that some contributions, both the practical and theoretical ones, can be proposed.
