

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusions

After analyzing gender differences in expressing politeness in English, it can be concluded that:

- 1) Male and female have some different strategies in expressing politeness for have difference reasons. For male, they always express politeness by giving appreciation of one's wants in general or to the expression of similarity between ego's and one's wants. Therefore, they are dominant to choose positive politeness strategy. While For female, they always express politenesses by saying some reasons to avoid their responsibility. That is why they always choose off record in expressing politeness.
- 2) Male and female show their different strategies in expressing politeness in different ways. For male, they use commissive and expressive as their way to express politeness because they always have a commitment to be more polite by giving promising, offering, thanking, apolozing, and condoling to make their listeners think they have responsibility in expressing politeness. Meanwhile, for female they are dominant used directive, commissive, and expressive as their way to express politeness. It describes that female always express politeness by requesting, offering, and apolozing to attract their listener. It is aimed to protect their face, try to achieve high social status, and to show modeling correct behavior.

5.2 Suggestions

Based on the results of the study, the writer presents the following suggestions:

1. Students should express politeness strategies when they want to speak to other people. Due to the fact there are many students who differ in age, culture, religion, etc.
2. Parents should give the attention and always express polite language to their children, because they are the real model of good education.
3. Teachers in schools should be able to teach their students to use polite language in order to make the politeness become a habitual action.
