ABSTRACT

TINCE SIBORO. The Ulos Weaver Empowerment Model in Lumban Suhi-suhi Village, Pangururan District. Postgraduate Program Medan State University 2019.

This study is a qualitative study to examine the model of empowering Ulos Weavers in Lumban Suhi-suhi Village, Pangururan District, Samosir Regency, North Sumatra Province. The younger generation is increasingly not concerned with weaving ulos cloth, whereas the technique and method of weaving ulos cloth is a tradition that must be preserved and passed on to the next generation. The younger generation should continue to preserve weaving activities because not all regions have local wisdom of the Batak Toba traditional Ulos cloth. For this reason, a solution is needed so that the younger generation in Lumban Suhi-suhi Village continues to preserve weaving activities. The focus of this research is to explain the profile of ulos weavers and the constraints faced by Ulos weavers and to explain the model of empowerment of Ulos weavers in Lumban Suhi-suhi Village. The purpose of this study is to provide a conclusion about the need to apply the empowerment model in Lumban Suhi-suhi Village.
