

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusions

This study is aimed to describe the utterances used by the Karonese families in Deli Tua at home, or in their informal interaction. Based on the analysis, the conclusions are drawn as the following:

1. The Karonese families used two types of politeness strategies in their informal interaction both interaction parent to parent and parent to child. The two types are bald on record strategy and positive politeness strategy. Bald on record strategy is dominantly used by the Karonese families.
2. The Karonese families expressed their politeness by using kinship forms and pronoun in their informal interaction, both interaction parent to parent and parent to child.
3. Bald on record strategy is dominantly used by the Karonese families because of three factors. They are social distance (D) of the speaker and hearer, power (P) between them, and the rank of imposition (R). Parents and children know each other very well and have very close relationship, so the politeness is not generally expected.

5.2 Suggestions

Dealing with the findings of the research, some constructive ideas are suggested as the following:

1. It is suggested to the Karonese families especially for all the parents to be the real model of practicing politeness to their children from the beginning, in order to be polite in communicating to others.
2. It is suggested that the Karonese researchers should be more concerned with the research of the Karonese since it is still very rarely conducted.
3. It is suggested to the expert of the Karonese to write more books or references of politeness strategies in the Karonese families.