The objectives of this descriptive qualitative study were to discover: (1) the types of speech acts, (2) the process of speech acts, and (3) the reasons of using speech acts in Indonesia Lawyers Club Talk Show Program. The data were obtained from the downloaded episodes and then were transcribed. The data were the host and guests' utterances in ILC Talk Show Program from the topics of Penyakit Menahun Namanya Pungli, and Tukang Ojek Online Simalakama Pemerintah. The data were identified, analyzed and categorized based on Searle's (1979), Austin's (1962) and Grundy's (2000) theory. The findings of the study showed that: 1) There were 4 types of speech acts found in Indonesia Lawyers Club Talk Show Program namely a) representatives, b) directive, c) commissive, and d) expressive; 2) The processes of speech acts conducted by the host and the guest, namely a) direct, b) indirect, c) literal, and d) non literal form; and 3) There were some reasons of the use of speech acts used by both the host and the guest of Indonesia Lawyers Club talk show program in the ways they are. As the host, Karni Ilyas had an authority to question the guests about their point of view related to the discussed issue. Therefore the type of speech act used by the host in that talk show was directive, in the form of questioning and commanding. On the other hand, the guest performed dominantly representative speech acts in form of informing, reporting, conveying, affirming and denying. It is because the guests had obligation to answer no matter what the questions of the host.
