

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusions

The objective of this research was to examine malignant narcissism syndrome in Divergent including the characteristics, realization, and the reasons that portrayed by the characters. After analyzing the data and found the research findings, conclusions are drawn as follows.

1. The characteristics of malignant narcissism in Divergent were narcissistic personality disorder, antisocial personality disorder, ego-syntonic sadism, and paranoid personality disorder.
2. The research found 38 data of malignant narcissism in Divergent. There were 11 data of narcissistic syndrome that consists of (1) unlimited fantasies, (2) believes that she/he is high-status people, (3) exploit others, (4) lack empathy, and (5) arrogant behaviors and attitudes diagnostic criteria. Four data for antisocial personality disorder that consists of a failure to conform to social norms, deceitfulness (conning others), and failure plan ahead. Seven data for ego-syntonic sadism that consist of destroy and dehumanize others. The last is paranoid personality disorder, there were 16 data showed by the characters that consist of reluctant to confide with others, read everything as hidden demeaning or threatening, bear grudges, and quick to react angrily related to her/his reputation or character.

3. The reasons for malignant narcissism portrayed by Eric and Jeannie in Divergent were temperament that includes biological factors, trauma appears as the part of psychological factors and social and cultural dynamic that brought them to become a higher position in society.

B. Suggestions

In relation to the conclusion, suggestions are staged as the following.

1. It is suggested to all of the people that watching a movie are not just entertainment media. However, a movie is able to be an education and knowledge media. In this case, a movie is also attaining to teach about the behaviors and attitudes of someone that showed by the characters as the data of the study of the researcher.
2. It is advised that the reader should increase scientific knowledge about the relationship between personality disorder and literature or psychoanalysis particularly about malignant narcissism syndrome in movie since there is one of the features of malignant narcissism that have not been explained clearly in the theory. It can be identified further using other theories or some of supporting theories.
3. It is recommended to further researchers to conduct other research related to malignant narcissism and deepen the theory since the literature on malignant narcissism which was sparse. Moreover, there is no clear guidelines how much features of someone should have to be considered as malignant narcissist person.