

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusios

This study is concerned on language impoliteness by children three year-old. It is aimed at describing language impoliteness by children three year-old. This study shows the types of impoliteness strategy that used by children three-year old, how they used and why they used the impoliteness strategy. After analyzing the data, conclusions are drawn as the following.

1. There are four types of impoliteness strategy that expressed by the three year-old children, namely Bald on record Impoliteness, Positive Impoliteness, Negative Impoliteness, and Withhold Impoliteness. Bald on record Impoliteness is the most dominant strategies used by the three year-old children.
2. The three year-old children used direct speech act and indirect speech acts in producing impoliteness strategies. Direct speech acts is the dominant used by the three year-old children.
3. The three year-old children used impoliteness strategies in their interaction because of two things, internal and external factors.

5.2 Suggestions

Based on the conclusion stated above, this study has some suggestions to the readers, especially parents who have important role in teaching their child to master politeness and to prevent the child from the factor that affects the children to use impoliteness strategies as follows:

1. To other research, who want to elaborate the study about language impoliteness in other field, it will have good contribution for language development.
2. And to all the readers, this study shows that the impoliteness language phenomenon happened not only in adult interaction but in children interaction also. It means that all of us should beware with this condition, and try to find out the way, the best way to educate the children.

UNIVERSITAS NEGERI
MEDAN
UNIMED

THE
Character Building
UNIVERSITY