15. Tri Fitriani, S.Pd., M.A., as the English teacher of SMPS Pahlawan Nasional Medan, for helping the writer accomplish this thesis,
16. Hasiholan Silaban and Saurmarotua Siregar, The writer’s beloved parents, to whom this thesis is lovingly dedicated. They give more strength than they will ever realize. Gratitude is expressed for every prayer whispered in silence, every sacrifice made without words, and every moment of strength given so the writer can grow. Their love, patience, and unwavering support always carry the writer through the hardest days of this journey. Everything the writer is today and everything she will be tomorrow exist because of them. This work belongs to them as much as it belongs to the writer,

17. Yosia Rafael Silaban, The writer's beloved younger brother, for endless support, prayers, and words of encouragement that never fail to lift the writer up. His words, "You must get that bachelor's degree," always echo in the writer's heart and become strength through moments of doubt and exhaustion. This achievement is shared together,

19. Pdt. Nursanty Siregar, The writer's dearest eldest aunt, for love, prayers, guidance, and constant support throughout the journey. Her kindness, wisdom, and care are great blessings in the writer's life,
20. Sintikhe Dora Y. Lumbantobing, Meiliana Lumbantobing, The writer's beloved sisters, for being constant sources of strength, comfort, and encouragement. Their belief and support guide the writer through every challenge,
21. Rika Rosani Anggraeni Sibarani, S.Pd, A beloved friend, From the first day this journey begins, she is present through laughter, stress, tears, and everything in between. She listens when no one else does, understands the writer's silence, and stays even when the writer has nothing to say. Gratitude is expressed for being a safe place, an uneg-uneg listener, and a constant reminder that the writer is never alone. Every shared moment, every late-night conversation, and every small comfort becomes part of the strength that carries the writer to this point. The writer may be the one who holds this degree, but every step that makes it possible is shared with her,
22. Agnes Kanisya Simanungkalit, S.Pd, Angel Reyana Simanullang, S.Pd, Aprilia Firda Pangaribuan, S.Pd, Aquilara Sitanggang, S.Pd, Firda Dwi Septia, S.Pd, Rika Rosani Anggraeni Sibarani, S.Pd (Handal Dalam Segala Hal), aas the writer's dear college friends. Gratitude is expressed for filling the writer's university years with laughter, stories, and unforgettable memories. Countless moments are

shared, from sleepless nights and stressful deadlines to endless jokes and laughter that make everything feel lighter. Every struggle is turned into something bearable, and every day becomes something worth remembering. Even though separate paths are followed in the future, a part of the writer's heart always remains with them. No matter where life leads, the bond that is built always remains real, warm, and unforgettable,

23. Rika Rosani Anggraeni Sibarani, S.Pd, Rosanti Yemima Irene Simanjuntak, S.Pd, as the writer's beloved college friends since PLP

1. Gratitude is expressed for walking beside the writer through every step of this journey. They are present in both laughter and silence, in joy and exhaustion. Their presence makes every moment more meaningful and every challenge more bearable. Appreciation is given for understanding without words and for providing endless support. This journey is never the same without them,

24. All Parties, who cannot be mentioned individually, but whose contributions and support help the writer complete this thesis. Gratitude is expressed for their kindness and generosity,

25. Lastly, appreciation is given to the writer herself, who carries every dream, tear, and prayer. Strength is shown in facing fears, doubts, and silent battles while continuing to move forward. Even on days filled with exhaustion and moments of despair, perseverance remains. Through every stumble, strength is found, and through every tear, courage is built. At this point, the writer stands with the result of every sleepless night, every prayer, and every quiet hope. The writer is encouraged to be gentle and proud of herself, as everything she has become is once a prayer of her past self,
